After 3 races it will be determined by the directors with input from the other drivers if the rookies are ready to be placed in there regular starting position. Also, if by a vote of the directors with input from other drivers a veteran will be put to the rear if a safety issue becomes a concern.

10. Feature points will be the INEX Points system, heat points will be 30 points for win, dropping 2 point to 15th place which will be 2 points as will any position after 15th place.

For the 2017 season there will be 20 bonus points for those who attend Speedway 95 race and 20 bonus points for those who attend Unity race to be awarded at the end of the season.

11. The line-ups will be determined as follows:

If the track agrees the pole car only after the original start can choose inside/outside on restart, all others fall in where they belong.

TT Event (there are no heat races in TT)

The opening day TOUR race everyone will draw for position.

After opening day

TT Feature

The top three finishes from the previous week, or any of the top three finishers that did not make the next scheduled race behind the most recent top 3, will start at the rear rear of the field in front of anyone wanting the rear. Cars that have been DQ will start at the rear of the feature in last place for two weeks for the next two races they attend.

Points determine feature lineup. Once all cars that have been placed or want rear, the remaining cars will be split 50/50 with the top points being placed in the front half of feature inverted, the remaining cars will start in the second half of feature not inverted. If there is odd number of cars, the odd car is placed in the second half of this lineup. Any car that comes to race after the opening day race will be placed in the rear of the second half of the lineup in front of rookies and anyone wanting the rear.

Any track NELCAR races at be aware that track could change the lineup, they have the final say.

NELCAR EVENT

The opening day TOUR race everyone will draw for position. The draw will be for heat races. Where you finish in the heat will be the starting position in the feature. Example is if you finish 1st in the first heat you're on the pole, 1st in second heat your outside pole, 2nd in first heat starts 2nd on the inside, 2nd in second heat starts 2nd on the outside etc.

After opening day

NELCAR HEAT RACES

Points determine heat race lineups. The high point's heat is made up of the highest point's cars inverted. These cars are racing for heat points only; their starting position in the 1st half of the feature lineup will be the same as the heat line up. The low point's heat is made up of the lowest point's cars not inverted. These cars are racing for their starting position in the 2nd half of the feature line up. If there is odd number of cars, the odd car is placed in the second half of this lineup. Any car that comes to race after the opening day race will be placed in the rear of the second heat in front of rookies and anyone wanting the rear.

NELCAR FEATURE LINEUP

The high point's is the 1st half of the feature lineup. The low point's heat finish is the 2nd half of the feature lineup. The top three finishes from the previous week, or any of the top three finishers that did not make the next scheduled race behind the most recent top 3, will start at the rear rear of the field in front of anyone wanting the rear. Cars that have been DQ will start at the rear of the feature in last place and at the rear of the high points heat (NELCAR races) for two weeks for the next two races they attend. (Any driver using a different car from the heat to feature or any driver not making the heat race, will have to start at rear in front of rookies and behind the top finishes from previous races.)

Any track NELCAR races at be aware that track could change the lineup, they have the final say.

NATIONAL QUALIFIER

Everyone draws for heat starting position; heat-finishing position will determine feature-starting position. Refer to opening day of NELCAR. Previous top three will not go to rear for this race. If time allows and track agrees time trials will be used to determine the starting lineup in the heats. Tires used in time trials will be required to be on the car for the heats and feature. Tires will be marked that are on car prior to time trials. If tire/tires are changed after qualifying or heats, qualifying times and/or heat finish will be disallowed, they will be allowed to start in the rear of the heat/feature. Damage tires will be allowed to be changed on a case to case basis with approval.

12. Line-ups will be posted after last practice for LEGENDS or 1 hr. before race time and anyone that is late getting to track will start at rear. We need to do this so the Track/Point coordinator can get the line-ups posted for you and also get the information to the track officials.

13. When the lineup is called there will be 10 minutes to get your car in line. We don't have the time to make this a drawn out procedure. The track expects us to do this in a timely manner. When the cars are called by the track to the staging area, anyone not making lineup will go to rear.

14. The NATIONAL QUALIFIER everyone will draw for position in the heat.

Where you finish in the heat will be the starting position in the feature. Example is if you finish 1st in the first heat your on the pole, 1st in second heat your outside pole, 2nd in first heat starts 2nd on the inside, 2nd in second heat starts 2nd on the outside etc.

15. Anyone that comes to race at either TT or the NELCAR TOUR and was not at the opening day race will start at the rear in front of the rookies if any. On races with heats you will start the rear in the second heat.

16. All cars will be required to have safety inspection by the INEX Tech Inspector before racing in any INEX Sanctioned event. Every car that passes will get a safety sticker. It is the responsibly of the car driver/owner to have this done. It is you're responsibly to make sure your car is safe, checking ahead of time will save everyone time at the track, if you have any questions call either call INEX or the Tech Inspector. This is being done for both you and your fellow racers.

The driver will be determined by the winner of the race drawing a number, (the numbers will be the total number of cars in that race) and the number drawn will be that finishing position for that car. Example: if #5 is drawn then the 5th place car receives the award; this is addition to what 5th place would pay. No one car can receive more than 2 draws per year. If you have had 2 draws that finishing position will not be placed in the “hat”.

20. All drivers are required to sign the sign in sheet as soon as possible; this facilitates a speedy line up calculation. Failure to sign in will result in being put to the rear of the field.
